Tony walked into the school through the back door. He did not know where the main entrance was. He asked a student standing in the hallway.

"Excuse me. Where is the main entrance?" Tony asked.

"Do you have a map of the school?" asked the student.

"No, I do not," answered Tony.

"OK. Go down the hallway. The hallway is short," the student said.

"Where do I go next?" asked Tony.

"Turn left by the classroom," said the student.

"What does the classroom look like?" Tony asked.

"The classroom door is red," answered the student.

Tony began walking. He did not listen to the student's directions. He turned right at the end of the hallway. Tony entered the cafeteria. There were long tables inside. No one was eating. Lunch was over.

Tony did not see the classroom that the student told him about. He was lost again.

Tony walked through the library. There were rows and rows of books. The librarian sat behind a desk. The library was quiet.

Tony found the auditorium. It was dark inside. Some students were standing on the stage. They were practicing a play. Tony liked to act. He wanted to be in the school play.

Tony left the auditorium. He was confused. A teacher asked Tony if he needed help.

"I am lost," said Tony.

"What are you looking for?" asked the teacher.

"I am looking for the main entrance," said Tony.

"The main entrance is at the end of the hallway," said the teacher.

"What is near it?" asked Tony.

"The main entrance is near the gym. The gym is loud. You can hear the gym class," the teacher said.

"Is the main entrance large?" asked Tony.

"Yes, the main entrance is large. It is hard to miss," said the teacher.

Shawn was waiting for Tony at the main entrance. Tony was excited to see his friend!
